- About a mile outside the entrance to the harbor of Odessa, ██████████ four or five small destroyers and two submarines engaged in exercises on 16 April 1952. The destroyers usually patrol up to Cape Fontana (N46-23, E30-45). Each destroyer had two stacks, radio, and radar. The submarines were painted dark gray with green stripes running the length of the vessel. They were of average size, with a small gun at the prow, and did not have schnorkel equipment.
